Adani - A leading agri-business

YOU MIGHT HAVE HEARD OF US

Adani is a globally integrated infrastructure and energy business. That means we are far more diverse than you might imagine.

We specialise in operations that span ports, multi-modal logistics, power generation, transmission, mining and even agriculture.

You might have heard that we are playing a significant part in the plan to provide power to hundreds of millions of people who currently don't have electricity, to lift them out of energy poverty.

But we understand that as a relatively new name to Australia, you might also want to know more about the long-term agri-business future we are building locally and creating new jobs.

So, take a closer look and see what Adani is doing to build our agri-business with local regional communities - right here, right now.

ADANI'S AGRI-BUSINESS IS FEEDING MILLIONS

In India, Adani's Agricultural Business helps feed a massively growing nation:

- India's largest producer of edible oil such as sunflower and soya.

- Producing high protein foods like fresh chickpeas.

- Through controlled atmosphere storage expertise Agrifresh supplies fresh fruit and vegetables to many Indian cities and towns.

- Supplying a million cartons of fresh apples each year including supply contracts with major fruit exporters from the USA, New Zealand, China, Australia, Chile, Canada, South Africa and many countries in Europe.

SEEKING CLOSER TIES WITH AUSTRALIAN AGRI-BUSINESS

Adani is not only feeding millions, but is now seeking closer ties with the Australian agri-business sector.

These ties between Adani's significant food and logistics business and Australia's renowned farmers and processors will help build closer trade with India, one of the world's largest consumer markets.

With a growing demand for protein foods in India, and Australia's natural agriculture advantages, Adani is now investing in agri-business right here in Australia.

That's better food for millions and more jobs for Australians.

This is Adani.
